

Silence Now

Silence now, let the shades be gone calm your soul in my smiling dawn.
Hear my call; though you may be astray
I won't be far away
I was there long before your start know the cause of your broken heart Lean on me and let me fill your need embrace your soul, and lead

Don't believe in a life in vain
I will free you from guilt and chain Hear my word! You'll find the truth in me and truth will set you free Dress up now in a joyful way
All your sins have been washed away I'll renew your song with joy and grace and shine out through your face.

Keep in mind that I rose you up from the dust you will reach the top Rise and shine, for you have grown to light for those who walk by night Share the bread that I gave to you quench their thirst with eternal brew Show the world that children from above are all combined in love.
